Japanese Forces May Be Planning For Major Retreat

Large-Scale Withdrawal Is Likely, Late Reports
Indicate

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, May 28 (AP)—Chinese battle groups ground into Japan's trans-China lifeline to Southeast Asia at five points along a vast 850-mile front tonight amid indications the Japanese might be preparing to quit South China.

There were signs that the Japanese were contracting, if not preparing to pull out entirely of the southern end of the vital trans-continental corridor. Such a withdrawal would cut off all overland escape routes for Japanese armies in Burma, Malaya, Thailand and Indo-China and force suicide stands against the Allies.

Some Chungking, quarters attributed signs of a large-scale Japanese withdrawal northward toward the Yangtze river to a Japanese fear that Russia may enter the war. Important changes in Japanese strategy in China were expected within a month.

One unconfirmed report in Chungking asserted that Japanese forces in the Netherlands East Indies were attempting to evacuate to Southeast Asia as part of a general withdrawal toward Manchuria.

Major Chinese Victory

The reports—partly speculative—followed hot on the heels of the greatest Chinese victory in months, the recapture of Yungning (Nanning), one of the major Japanese strongholds in South China.

Yungning's fall cut the primary overland highway supply route to Southeast Asia, and today the Chinese high command said that Chinese troops were tearing deeper into the southern end of the 850-mile fighting front running from north to south across the heart of the Chinese mainland.

Spearing the Southern Kwangsi province attack, which the high command termed an "offensive," were veteran troops under Kwangtung Gen. Chang Kai-Shek, leader of the old fourth nationalist army—the "ironclads"—which achieved fame in Chinese civil war days.

Fanning out from Yungning, Gen. Chang's forces began to mop up enemy remnants in the vicinity of the city, 470 miles south of Chungking and seventy-eight miles from Indo-China, and by last night had cleared the north bank of the Si (west) river.

Jap Forces surrounded

Enemy forces which withdrew to the south bank—in the area of the reported Japanese railroad from Liuchow to Indo-China—were surrounded and attacked, a composite said.

Chang's forces were attacking the west flank of Japan's overland corridor on a sixty-mile front north of Yungning and reached the outskirts of Pingyang, fifty-eight miles northeast. Pingyang's capture would consolidate the Chinese hold on the overland highway to Indo-China and reduce Japanese chances of retaking Yungning.

Ninety miles north of Yungning, the Chinese were attacking at a second point along the west wall of the Japanese corridor—and were striking eastward toward the former big United States air base of Liuchow, which was heavily strafed by United States Fourteenth Air Force fighter bombers.

Cross Yung River

From captured Huiyuanchen, the Chinese crossed a north-south stretch of the Yung river seven miles west of the Japanese bastion of Lishan and were advancing toward that strongpoint, forty-three miles east of Liuchow.

Another 220 miles to the northeast, a third Chinese column pressed six miles along the Chikliang highway toward the former American base of ShaoYang (Paoching).

Authorities permitted disclosure that China's American-trained new Sixth Army which fought in Burma was spearheading this drive in Western Hunan province. The American-equipped troops reached a point twelve miles west of ShaoYang and were locked in a swaying battle

Corens Is Sentenced to 18 Years In Prison for Murder of His Wife

Collapses in His Chair
When Judge Gives Him Long Term

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 28 (AP)—Henry H. Corens, 44-year-old Bethesda automobile painter was taken to the Maryland state penitentiary today after he was sentenced by Circuit Court Judge James Clark to eighteen years imprisonment for slaying and beheading his wife.

The sentence followed the withdrawal of a motion for a new trial by Defense Attorneys George Woelfel and Harold C. Smith.

The state in its closing arguments demanded "the highest type of conviction known to the law"—first degree murder—for Corens, whose wife, Pearl, a 31-year-old War department employee was reported missing last February 12. Her severed head was found in Fairfax county, Va., February 27, but her body has never been discovered.

When the head was found, the state charged Corens with slaying his wife and sawing off her head with a hacksaw. Four dentists placed on the witness stand by the prosecution identified the head as that of Mrs. Corens.

"I don't know how you killed her, but that you killed her is as certain as though witnesses had been there to see you bludgeon and choke the life out of her," Judge Clark said in pronouncing the sentence.

The crime, he continued, "is one of the most diabolical murders that ever blackened the pages of Maryland jurisprudence. x x x I am going to give you all the punishment I can give you. The balance I leave to God and your conscience."

Previous to the sentencing, Defense Attorney Smith pleaded for leniency. After sentence was pronounced, defense counsels indicated they would seek an appeal.

Corens, who insisted he was innocent throughout the four-day trial, collapsed in his chair after Judge Clark had spoken. He covered his face with his hands and wept.

Utility Holding Companies May Escape "Death"

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Chief Justice Stone today opened the way for a supreme court decision months hence on long-stalled litigation over constitutionality of the "death sentence clause" of the Public Utility Holding Company act.

The chief justice decided he is eligible to consider the case, thus giving the court a legal quorum of six members to decide the issue. Directly involved is the North American Company of New York.

The Securities and Exchange Commission ordered North American to divest itself of securities of various concerns it operated. North American in February 1943 asked the court to determine the validity of the order, but it was shortly afterward made known that four justices had disqualified themselves.

Three Others Named

Names of the three justices other than Stone have not been made public. It is presumed they are Justice Douglas, former SEC chairman and Justices Murphy and Jackson, former attorneys general. Stone did not disclose why he had changed his position.

The "death sentence" clause requires interstate gas and electric holding companies to limit operation to a single integrated system. In completing a forum to decide its legality, the court set Oct. 8 for hearing argument. That is the start of the next term.

At the same time it will hear companion cases on the same issue involving Engineers Public Service Company, operator of gas and electric properties serving twelve states; the American Power and Light Company of Maine and the Electric Power & Light Corporation which operates in the vicinity of the Gulf of Mexico.

Will Adjourn Soon

The court added two weeks to its current term, announcing it would sit two more Mondays and then adjourn unless it is necessary to grant another extension. About forty cases await action.

In a 5 to 4 decision, the court overruled a labor union's attempt to knock out part of a lower court decree so the National Labor Relations Board could increase a back pay award. The opinion affirmed the Eighth circuit court of appeals in a case involving 209 workers and the Eagle-Picher Mining and Smelting Co. and the Eagle-Picher Lead Co. operating in Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas.

Startling New Chinese Success Dominates News from the Orient

By KIRK L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

A startling new Chinese success in Southern Kwangsi province that has snipped the Japanese land communications corridor with the southern end of the crumpling Nipponese co-operatively conquest zone momentarily dominates the news from the Orient.

It lends a color of credence here-tofore lacking to persistent reports from Chinese sources that an enemy retreat from all Southern China may be in prospect if not already in motion.

The fall of Yungning (Nanning), critical southern road and river transport hub of Japanese land communications with Indo-China, drastically limit the usefulness of that corridor to the enemy. It isolates completely by land and sea Japanese garrisons in south and Southeastern China, Indo-China, Thailand, Malaya and the Dutch Indies from both Japan and the Eagle-Picher Mining and Smelting Co. and the Eagle-Picher Lead Co. operating in Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas.

Role of Mediator Asked for U. S. In His Program

Issues Blunt Warning to Argentina To Adopt Democratic Ideas

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28 (AP)—Secretary of State Stettinius chose for the United States tonight the role of mediator among the major nations, in a five-point declaration of foreign policy which climaxed a report on the United Nations Conference.

Warns Argentina

In an address punctuated by a blunt warning to Argentina to put democratic principles into practice at home, Stettinius called sharply on Russia, Britain, France and China to join with the United States in reaching an early "common understanding" on such vexing problems as the establishment of a new Polish government.

The speech by the chairman of the United States delegation was prepared for radio delivery from his penthouse apartment atop a San Francisco hotel. In it the secretary laid down these tenets of a foreign policy which, he said, must attain the strength and continuity that has been "so difficult to achieve in the past history of our country."

U. S. Foreign Policy

1. The capping of final military victory with measures to prevent Germany and Japan from ever again waging war.

2. Extension of wartime "collaboration and community of purpose" with the United States serving as mediator among the great powers when their interests conflict.

3. Application to world affairs of the principle of "fair dealing for all peoples and states, large and small."

4. Advancement of worldwide social and economic conditions which "create a climate for peace."

5. Realization that we live in a world where the sovereignty of even the most powerful nations is not absolute and "there is no such thing as complete freedom of decision for any nation."

Stettinius said the American delegation had been in daily communication with President Truman and that "his leadership has been essential to our progress."

Touches Vital Problem

Touching on one of the United Nations conference's most vital problems, Stettinius gave an American interpretation of the Yalta voting agreement reached by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin. He said that the Big-Five must agree on any enforcement action taken by the proposed World Security Council.

The chief justice decided he is eligible to consider the case, thus giving the court a legal quorum of six members to decide the issue. Directly involved is the North American Company of New York.

The Securities and Exchange Commission ordered North American to divest itself of securities of various concerns it operated. ## Success of War Loan Will Destroy Tokyo, Maj. Gen. Mulcahy Asserts

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Here is a war bond statement from Maj. Gen. Francis P. Mulcahy of the marines, commanding general, aircraft, fleet marine force, Pacific.

"After our first bombing visit to Tokyo and the brutal gangster slaying of American airmen, we promised we would be back again and again. We are making good that promise. Success of the Seventh War Loan will enable us to finish the job of destroying that capital of evil."

A THUNDERBOLT PLANE of the United States Twelfth Air Force flies low over the remains of Hitler's former Bavarian retreat at Berchtesgaden. The retreat is in ruins as a result of the last Allied bombing attack made on the "Citadel" shortly before the end of the war in Europe. Note the observers examining the wreckage. By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, Tuesday, May 29 (AP)—Escorted by Iwo-Jima-based Mustang fighters, more than 450 Superfortresses dropped 3,200 tons of fire bombs today on Yokohama, industrial and shipping center, in the greatest daylight raid yet attempted by Marianas-based B-29s.

Yokohama, eighteen miles south of Tokyo and separated from that recently-captured by the industrial suburb of Kawasaki, is Japan's fifth largest city. It was the first B-29 strike on Yokohama.

Large Area Bombed

Virtually all of the seventy-two-square-mile urban area of Yokohama was included in the target for the third fire strike in six days on key mainland objectives.

Leading industrial, business and governmental buildings of Tokyo, including part of the Imperial palace, were devastated in a 550-plane pre-dawn raid last Thursday, closely followed by a 500-plane strike in darkness Saturday morning.

Today's targets included an area squarely on the Yokohama harbor waterfront, where vital piers, docks and breakwaters jut out into the bay of Nippon's second greatest seaport.

Many Plants Attacked

In this area also are shipbuilding, aircraft, electrical and communications equipment plants.

A secondary target was Yokohama's most modern commercial and residential districts in the southeast sector of the city. The population there runs about 30,000 per square mile.

Another objective area encompassed industries built on reclaimed land jutting into Tokyo bay in the northeast sector of the city.

Yokohama is a maze of warehouses, docks, canals, railroad spurs and storage areas. Many small chemical plants, extensive freight yards and waterfront storage areas are included in the target zone.

Has 1,000,000 Population

Yokohama had a population of more than 1,000,000. It is the port for Tokyo and all Northern Honshu island, and handled twenty-five percent of Japan's prewar foreign trade.

Most of Japan's automotive industry is concentrated in three Yokohama factories, which classify the city as Nippon's Detroit. The city also has important aircraft, steel, rubber, radio and telephone plants.

Many of Japan's heavy boilers, electrical equipment and finished rubber is produced in Yokohama.

The original plan was to pinhole the entire territorial issue until after Japan was defeated. But the fact that each dispute thus far has raised an ideological issue and changes of spheres of influence has increased the chances of a quicker solution in the interests of world harmony.

No Piecemeal Facts

Sources close to both United States and British top-level policy makers say the major powers already have decided against dealing with these disputes on a piecemeal basis. Churchill acknowledged that an exception was made in the case of Poland.

War Production Board To Allow More Building

WASHINGTON, May 28—(P)—The War Production Board tonight eased its rigid limitations on construction activity.

The agency increased approximately five-fold the volume of civilian building activity which may be undertaken without special WPB permission. It did this by raising the dollar limitations on annual outlays for construction and alteration of homes, factories and business places.

As a preliminary to greater relaxations, WPB also removed its ban on grading, ditch-digging and similar earth-moving operations, to permit a start on such work in preparation for future building of highways, airports and other projects.

Lumber Is Scarce

The decision—like most of the relaxations already made for the manufacturing industries—gives no guarantee that building materials will be available and, in fact, WPB emphasized in a statement, that lumber and other supplies probably will remain scarce "for some time."

The WPB amendment does not lift any of the restrictions which now govern the sale of lumber and building materials, but it does permit an owner to undertake five times as much construction, repair or alteration—if he can get the materials from his lumber yard—than was formerly permitted.

Work on a one-family home or farmhouse, previously was limited to $200 a year; now the limit is $1,000. Similarly, a factory could undertake work up to $5,000; now the limit is $25,000.

A list of the types of buildings and cost limits now authorized follows:

One-Family House, $1,000

1. One-family house or farm-house, $1,000; two-family house, $2,000; three-family house, $3,000; four-family house, $4,000; and five-family house, $5,000; previously the cost limit for each type was $200.

2. Barns and other farm construction, exclusive of farm houses, $1,000. Formerly the $1,000 limit included farm houses, for which not more than $200 could be spent.

3. An irrigation or drainage system serving more than one farm, $1,000; this limit previously applied.

4. A hotel, apartment building or other residence for six or more families, $5,000; the old cost limit was $1,000.

5. A store, restaurant, theater, bank, office, laundry, garage, warehouse or other retail or wholesale service establishment, including a frozen-food locker plant, $5,000; for most of these, the old limit was $200.

Larger Buildings

6. A church, hospital, school, college, USO club, public playground, a public building, an orphanage or other charitable building, a post exchange, canal, storm sewer, dam, levee, jetty or retaining wall, $10,000. For most of these the old limit was $1,000.

7. A factory, logging or lumber camp, bridge, overpass or underpass, tunnel, dock, pier, commercial airport, bus terminal, truck terminal, railroad or street railway building, research laboratory or pilot plant, $25,000; the old limitations ranged from $200 to $5,000.

8. Any other kind of project, $1,000; this class previously was limited to $200.

The amount of repair and maintenance work which may be done without WPB authorization by hotels, apartment buildings, banks, offices and stores was set at 20 cents maximum for each square foot of gross floor area. In addition, the owner may use all or part of his $5,000 exemption for repairs, but the allowance for new construction would be reduced accordingly.

Role of Mediator

Turning to the Polish situation, Stettinius said it was a matter of deep regret to the United States that the Polish people were not represented here. He cited the Yalta agreement, in saying that the Warsaw government should be reorganized on a broader democratic basis, with the inclusion of democratic leaders from Poland, itself, and from Poles abroad.

Stettinius termed "disappointing" the Big-Three negotiations on broadening the Polish government, which were broken off because of Moscow's arrest of sixteen underground leaders.

Will Keep Yalta Agreement

It is the intention of the United States, he emphasized, to exert all its influence in collaboration with Russia and Great Britain toward fulfillment of the Yalta agreement on Poland.

The primary objective of American foreign policy, Stettinius stressed, "is to continue and strengthen in the period of peace, that wartime solidarity which has made possible the defeat of Germany."

Trials of High

"We have every reason to believe the four countries will come together as to the tribunals methods and procedures of prosecution," he told correspondents.

Will Establish Offices

Stettinius said he would establish offices in Paris, London and at the seat of government in the American occupation zone of Germany. Associated with him as counsel for the United States will be Maj. Gen. William J. Donovan, Sidney S. Alderman of Washington, D. C., Francis M. Shea, assistant United States attorney general, and Gordon Dean and Col. John Amen, both former special assistants to the attorney general.

Although Jackson did not say as much, there was a feeling in some quarters here that Adolf Hitler—unless definitely proved to be dead—might be tried in absentia as a war criminal. If such a trial were ordered, Hitler would be given adequate notice to appear.

Hopkins, Stalin

Gen. Gammel's son, Maj. James Gammel, came to Moscow with his father as his military aide. Gammel and Clark-Kerr met numerous colleagues in the diplomatic corps.

Doughboys Take Strategic Town

By FRED HAMPSON

MANILA, Tuesday, May 29—(P)—Infantrymen of the Twenty-fifth division captured the strategic town of Santa Fe north of the Bailete Pass of Northern Luzon, Sunday, while the Thirty-second division secured much of the upper Villa Verde trail, flanking route into the Cagayan valley.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the capture today in a communique which reported that bombers dropped 450 tons of explosives on enemy positions in support of the drive against the last sizable Japanese position on Luzon.

On Mindanao, MacArthur said:

"Our forces with air support continue to push the enemy farther back into the hills."

He said the government was incurring a "moral obligation" in asking war production workers to remain on war jobs "which they ultimately must do."

The president said present state standards, most of them providing maximum payments of $15 to $18 a week, are "clearly inadequate to protect unemployed workers against ruthless cuts in living standards, particularly if they have families."

16 Weeks "Too Short"

Reporting that in nearly one-third of the states no worker can receive compensation for more than sixteen weeks of unemployment, Mr. Truman called the time "too short."

Chairmen of two important House committees, who preferred the wisdom of the program because of the additional cost, Congress, they predicted, will approve any additional large-scale spending not directly connected with the war.

Sen. Wagner (D-N.Y.) who introduced a broadened Social Security act last week said he was in favor of the Truman emergency plan and "will work for it."

Between the Twenty-fifth division at Santa Fe and the agriculturally-rich Cagayan valley is more than seventy-five miles of twisting road, about half of it through a canyon and the remainder through the mountains.

By PAUL PATTISON

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28 (P)—Paul Patterson, publisher of the Baltimore Sunpapers, just back from a tour of the Pacific war theater, said today the capture of Nanking by the Chinese troops was due either to an increase in army strength or "pulling back" of Japanese forces in fear of Russia entering the war.

Australian and East Indies troops retrained Djeoata, on the north coast of Tarakan Island off Borneo. Eight Japanese planes raiding the area at night were driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

Three Tri-State Men Are Reported Liberated

Three tri-state soldiers have been liberated from German prison camps.

Mr. Ernest W. Siegner, husband of Mrs. Rose Corley Siegner, Hyattman, and son of Mr. and Mrs. John Siegner, Meyersdale, Pa., who worked as a slave laborer at Stalag B, escaped April 13 and walked to Allied-held Germany.

In the army since October, 1937, Pvt. Siegner was sent to North Africa in September, 1942 following two years service in Hawaii. He was captured at the Kasserine pass, North Africa, in February, 1943.

Sgt. John Paul Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker, RFD 1, Everett, Pa., was released from Stalag Luft 4 April 29. In the army since October, 1942, Sgt. Baker was sent overseas in April, 1944. He was captured following an aerial combat mission aboard a B-17 Flying Fortress.

Pvt. Lester Rouzer, who was wounded in action July 6 and captured at that time, has been liberated from Stalag 7-A near Munich. He was first treated at a Paris hospital.

Jack Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Evans, Route 2, Williams road, was treated in Memorial hospital yesterday at 5:30 p.m. for a laceration on the side of the body. He told attaches he was diving at Acme beach and struck a chair in the water.

WASHINGTON FIRM IS LOWEST BIDDER ON $100,000 ISSUE

Ferris Exnickos and Company, of Washington, D. C., bid $100,911 for each $100 on $100,000 worth of City of Cumberland bonds yesterday and was awarded the issue. The interest rate will be one per cent, the lowest ever bid for city bonds.

The primary reason for the low rate is the excellent financial condition of the city, according to Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor. The bonds will mature in four to thirteen years.

Money from the bond sale will be used to finance the cost of resurfacing city streets, a project which is now well under way.

Other bidders were:

Harris Trust and Savings Bank, New York, $100,109 at one percent; Alex Brown and Sons, Baltimore, $100,079 at one percent.

Phelps, Fenn and Company, New York, $101,441 at one and one-quarter percent.

Mackubin, Legg, and Company, Baltimore, $100,579 at one and one-quarter percent.

Second National Bank, city $102,2852 at one and one-half percent.

Race Commission Approves Dates For Fairgo Meet

BALTIMORE, May 28—(P)—The Maryland Racing Commission announced today approval of racing dates requested by two of Maryland's half-mile tracks—Cumberland and Marlboro.

The Cumberland course will operate from August 7 through August 18, with a two-day lull on August 12 and 13. Marlboro will hold forth from August 23 through Labor day, September 3.

These dates complete the state's minor track schedule for the year.

Tony Cuccinello Is Top Hitter

Mercantile Trust Company, Baker Watts and Company, and Stein Brothers, and Boyce, Baltimore (joint bid) $100.33 at one and one-quarter.

Second National Bank, city $102,2852 at one and one-half percent.

NORWAY LICKS ITS WOUNDS

SYMBOLIC of Norway's abundant hydroelectric power is this photo of the power plant at Rjukan, ninety miles west of Oslo.

By HUDSON PHILLIPS

AP Newsfeatures

NEW YORK — Soon after the invasion of Norway April 9, 1940, the Nazis began a pilaging and plundering program which dug at the strong roots of the nation's economic position and which will leave Norway with a tremendous problem.

Norway's past prosperity was dependent upon world contacts. Its merchant marine ranked fourth in world tonnage before the war and normally supplied essentials to about forty per cent of the population.

Luckily, about five-sixths of the nation's ships were reported in ports outside of Norway at the time of the German invasion.

Latest United States Department of Commerce reports show how the country's economic front deteriorated:

International whaling provided prewar employment for several thousand of the approximately 3,000,000 inhabitants of Norway. Products from fisheries — mainly dependent on access to other than Norwegian coastal waters — furnished the chief commercial export resources.

Loss of earnings from the fish industry complicated reorganization of the country's economic life and wages declined.

Food reserves were not large at the time of the invasion and Norway always had relied heavily on imported foods. Under German occupation a labor shortage affected agricultural production.

Germany gradually dominated foreign trade dealings and took Norwegian exports but was unable to satisfy the little country's import needs in grains and foodstuffs.

The Germans took increasing amounts of wood pulp, paper, lumber and mineral products and in return was to provide Norway with coal, artificial textile materials, machinery, chemical products and electro-technical articles.

But the conquerors moved too swiftly, with the result that forest resources were reported soon depleted — threatening output for years to come. Germany fell down on supplying coal and coke.

B. &amp; O. Net Income Lower in April

BALTIMORE, May 28 (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad income account for the month of April, 1945, showed gross revenues of $32,392,478, operating expenses of $23,600,215, and net income of $2,085,869, the railroad company disclosed today.

Compared with April, 1944, the company stated, the account represented a decrease in operating revenues of $89,200, an increase in operating expenses of $563,413, and a decrease in net income of $469,346.

The report showed that net income for the four months of 1945, after providing for all interest and fixed charges, and an accrual of $8,700,207 for income taxes, was $7,243,236, a decrease compared with the same period last year, of $176,294.

Bond Sales Stand At $2,529,000,000

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP) — The Germans expected public works to provide employment — highway construction, railroad building, construction of military barracks and similar projects. German sources referred to the army as the largest employer in Norway and private construction was limited.

There was an abundance of hydroelectric power — the basis of Norway's prewar aluminum industry after crude bauxite had been imported — but the Germans planned expansion in order to increase electro-chemical and electro-metallurgical works.

But transportation problems affected the grandiose German dreams of developing hydroelectric plants. For one thing, railway rolling stock was in bad repair.

Norwegian prewar subsoil resources mainly were iron ore, sulphur, pyrites, nickel and copper ore. There was a dearth of mineral fuels, however. The ferro-alloy industry was prominent while there was extensive output of salt peter. But German plans for metal production improvements were impeded because of damage — especially sabotage.

Bank deposits increased while commercial loans and withdrawals declined. Banks and insurance companies were ready subscribers to government reconstruction loans. Interest rates advanced sharply but dividends decreased. Stock exchange trading was reported brisk, however.

Loss of foreign raw materials and supplies necessitated these changes in Norway's manufacturing set-up.

Output of paper, rope and cellulose wadding was taken over by textile plants formerly depending upon imported materials — paper towels, napkins and table cloths also were manufactured in place of textiles.

Cellulose fodder output was initiated to supplement animal foodstuffs. Substitutes were found for tin containers in the fish-canning industry. Charcoal was used instead of motor gas generators to replace imported gasoline. Zinc alloys took the place of copper and copper alloys.

The Germans took increasing amounts of wood pulp, paper, lumber and mineral products and in return was to provide Norway with coal, artificial textile materials, machinery, chemical products and electro-technical articles.

But the conquerors moved too swiftly, with the result that forest resources were reported soon depleted — threatening output for years to come. Germany fell down on supplying coal and coke.

Negro Receives Life Term in Slaying

Earl Watkins, 19-year-old Baltimore negro, who was convicted in Washington County Circuit Court, Hagerstown, for the slaying of William Johnson, 16, also colored, at the Roxbury Penitentiary, was sentenced Saturday by Associate Judges Walter C. Capper and Joseph D. Mish to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

The negroes were at the supper table May 11 when Watkins slashed Johnson's throat with a knife. It was shown that Watkins was of low mentality and the negroes had quarreled in recent weeks at the prison farm near Hagerstown.

It was the first murder trial heard by Judge Capper since the local jurist was appointed to the bench last year.

The National Audubon Society, dedicated to the protection of birds, has been sponsoring annual winter bird censuses for the last 30 years to determine the increase and decrease amongst all types of these birds. Thousands of bird enthusiasts throughout the country list all the birds they see at the time the census is being taken and the census is then combined and published in a special supplement of the Society's official Journal.

Republicans Must Sit Up and Take Notice

REPUBLICANS, and particularly the Republican high command, may well take note of this man Truman and govern themselves accordingly. They may as well awaken to the fact that President Truman is moving along a course that will make it much more difficult for the minority to justify its political opposition. We can gauge, of course, only upon what has been done as the new administration is facing new and difficult experiences particularly in the critical field of foreign relations and a lot of water is yet to pour over the dam. But Republicans are facing the bald fact that many of the things over which there was great popular opposition no longer obtain to a considerable degree.

President Truman is correcting or at least avoiding many of the major blunders of his predecessor. There is the conspicuous instance of inviting former President Hoover to the White House for consultation possibly upon the international food setup, in which the former president has had more experience perhaps than any other executive private or official. The meeting was scheduled for the time at which these lines were written and the subject was not known but the conjecture was natural. It is a pity that the services of this man were not long since obtained for some of the critical problems in which he most assuredly could have lent a big helping hand. It is a pity that personal prejudices should have made the opportunity impossible.

But many other examples give occasion for pause and careful study on the part of the minority. Some of the things for which Republicans have long contended have been adopted by the new president. They would have younger and more vigorous men in place of the "tired and quarrelsome" incumbents of the Roosevelt cabinet. They would reduce the bureaucratic "jungle" of the executive department in Washington. They would give the West a greater recognition in the governmental structure. They would improve relations between the White House and Congress, and between the White House and the state governments. They long sought rational unification of the War Food Administration. Toward all these things President Truman has been moving, and has in part accomplished them.

Whether there is to be discerned as astute political manipulation in all these things as a chief objective is a question not to be answered immediately in the affirmative. Rather does it appear that the new president, suddenly saddled with tremendous responsibilities with only half of a terrible war ended, is giving more thought to the national welfare rather than to an adroit and cunning partisanship which so unfortunately characterized former policy.

The new administrative course is undoubtedly welcomed by the country. It may be said in passing, without rancor or partisan bitterness, that many of the myths formerly built up are being gradually dissipated. But it must not be supposed by the majority, if it is to function as it is supposed to do, that a life-long machine Democrat, now shouldering the executive direction of this great nation, is suddenly or gradually to become a Republican nor to abandon many of the dubious New Deal policies of his predecessor and the New Deal clique so well established in official and legislative circles.

The lesson for Republican leadership is that it must be alert, constructive and fully appreciative of the new trend of both domestic and world affairs. It must do more than ever show the country the fallacies of inherent Democratic principles and do it in a logical and convincing manner. It is a lesson that certainly should not be disregarded nor discounted. The party has none too soon looked to these new obligations by arranging for a continuous working program with a needed educational phase in place of the outmoded system of letting everything go until the last three months of an election campaign. The changes that have come upon us indicate there is much work to be done and it should be done thoroughly and well.

Fame Has Curious Angles at Times

FAME is sometimes a most peculiar thing. It also has its price to pay. There is, for example, the case of the home of Frank Sinatra, the radio singer, idol of the bobby-soxers, which as a result of that strange idolatry, has become a sort of shrine.

Now it's home on Lawrence avenue at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J. It appears that the shrine business has become a big nuisance not only to occupants but also to the police and neighbors, wherefore Sinatra has decided to sell the place and have done with it. The property has been purchased by Paul Raigor, of Paterson, N. J., who expects to assume occupancy in the near future.

Why has this so-called shrine become a nuisance? Well, it seems that during the time The Voice lived there before moving to the huge home he purchased in Hollywood, Calif., hundreds upon hundreds of bobby-soxers have visited it in the hope of getting a glimpse of an autograph of their singing idol. They waited for hours at a time—on the Sinatra lawn, on the curb, on the neighbors' lawns and porches.

Police blotters regularly contained notations on happenings in the Sinatra neighborhood. For example Frank's clothes were stolen from the clothesline. The bell was being rung to a point of distraction. A squad car was often dispatched to disperse the crowds. Neighbors reported they couldn't get their automobiles through the jam of girls in the street. Teenagers were hanging around at late hours of the night. Last week two girls ended up in juvenile court for breaking into the house and taking personal letters and pictures belonging to The Voice. Thus too strange and foolish vogue were added disturbing social problems.

A lot of strange things have happened during the last few years of which we have had little or no understanding. This is one of them.

New Draft Policy Reasonable and Fair

UNDER revised selective service regulations, men of 30 and over who remain in "useful" jobs will be deferred indefinitely. The change in policy seems both reasonable and fair. Older men and men with family responsibilities deserve first consideration as draft calls decline. Furthermore, the army's urgent need from now on will be for young men to fill the ranks as veterans are being demobilized.

One factor that is rarely taken into account is that the army is growing older all the time. The young man of 25 who was inducted in 1940 is a man of 30 now. Even those who joined at the time of Pearl Harbor are three and one-half years older today. To keep its combat divisions young and vigorous, the army and navy must continue to induct a constant flow of youthful replacements.

While this is essential there is one other revision which could be made at this time. The present draft policy has virtually put a halt to the training of doctors, engineers and scientists. Only a handful of 4-Fs are being left to take up their studies in these fields, and as a result there may be an acute shortage of trained technical men after the war.

This is short-sighted in the extreme. Britain and Russia, despite their urgent need of fighting manpower during the war in Europe, did not make this mistake. In both countries qualified young men were allowed to enter and carry on their studies in these fields. Unless the United States follows their example, handicaps may arise in the strenuous competition of the post-war period.

One Set of Controls For Another Set

AS every housewife knows, high prices are usually brought about by a shortage of goods. And there will never be enough production of necessary civilian goods to get the prices down until Washington begins removing some controls.

Current Washington orders are giving industry much less freedom to begin producing for peacetime prosperity than the headlines indicate.

In a good many cases, all that is happening is the substitution of one set of controls for another.

Washington announces that "certain metals will be available for civilian production." Read the announcement again and you see that the WPB is going to continue to direct what such metals can be used for.

Then the war mobilization and reconversion director, Vinson, announces that OPA is going to control prices on all goods, both those now available and those that are permitted to come back into production—and OPA Director Bowles repeats the announcement.

And if you are going to control prices, you have to control everything that goes into prices. The truth is that it takes more than a newspaper story about the removal of a given number of controls at some time in the future to get production started. It appears to be no case for optimism.

Japan peace overtures are reported to be reaching Chungking. Apparently it hasn't occurred to the Nipponese that the way to get out of China is to get out.

Hitler did not chew carpets, his personal physician says, but it cannot be denied that the führer wrought havoc otherwise.

The startling thing about the Japan peace rumors is that none has come from Stockholm.

BEAUTY AND TRANQUILLITY

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I was amused by the statement of a famous columnist recently when he told a friend of his that "beauty and tranquillity and quiet rumination have no market nowadays." He meant this as applied to a newspaper feature. He advised this friend to give such material the "brushoff."

Well, I do not agree with that columnist. For over a quarter of a century this columnist has been trying—imperfectly, it is true—to write just that sort of material, and in the many thousands of letters that keep coming to his desk are any evidence that people have an undying urge to read of "beauty and tranquillity and quiet rumination," then that other columnist was grossly wrong.

These talks circulate to over ten million readers! And have for twenty-five years.

There are many newspaper editors, I know, who have never been converted to this enlightening fact, but this disproves nothing. The delightful essays of David Grayson (Ray Stannard Baker) have "beauty and tranquillity and quiet rumination" to them and people have bought his books along this line to the tune of over a million copies!

How many writers of the other sort can mark up a like record?

We live in a restless and confused age. People are in a hurry to get somewhere—often not knowing just where. They talk in a hurry, eat in a hurry, and they take all too little time to think, to meditate and to pray. Into this torn world, if only enough of "beauty and tranquillity and quiet rumination" could be poured, it would lift humanity to a new high in hope and happiness.

As a matter of honest fact, this world is starved for a wholesome application of these three things "beauty and tranquillity and quiet rumination," but it makes little effort to gain nourishment from them, and there are all too few dealers of them in the marketplace!

These three essentials still remain unrationed and always will be. The Bible teaches these things and remains the world's biggest and most continuous "best seller." There must be something tremendously important to such simple, wholesome essentials. For one thing, they could give one a happy, healthy soul!

Moral Force Is Viewed as Answer To Veto Problem

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Whatever the detailed phrasing of the United Nations charter may turn out to be, the so-called veto power whereby the Security Council will be prevented from enforcing discipline upon the major powers will remain unchanged.

For several weeks the smaller powers have striven for some modification so that efforts to investigate an internal dispute shall not find the Security Council likewise paralyzed by the veto power.

But the commitment made at Yalta stands and the American delegation at San Francisco is bound to the position taken by President Roosevelt at his conference with Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

Dominant Question

Is there any way, therefore, by which the public opinion of the world can be mobilized against a country whose government threatens to become an aggressor? Can the veto power be used to muzzle inquiry and publicity and the disclosure of the facts of a dispute? This is the real question that has been bothering those critics of the Dumbarton Oaks charter as drafted when the veto power is placed in it.

Fortunately, the American delegation has succeeded in getting approval from all the other major powers and the smaller powers of an amendment to the charter initiated by Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, which permits the assembly of the United Nations organization at all times to investigate "any situation regardless of origin."

This means that the Assembly can debate anything, even the question of whether a particular dispute is or is not wholly internal. That Vandenberg amendment is a limitation to the veto power of any nation. It is true, of course, that the assembly cannot debate a subject if the Security Council has already taken jurisdiction but once the veto power in the council has been exercised so as to squelch any publicity or disciplinary action, the Assembly is free to resume its debate and the publication of all the facts or views it wishes to place before the court of world opinion.

Forum Possible Any Time

It is true that the Assembly does not meet often but sooner or later provision can be made for temporary commissions to permit hearings on disputed points and this would furnish a forum.

What it all boils down to is that where the major powers are concerned no physical coercion can be applied but the moral force and the power of publicity and reason will not be inhibited. There are some observers who have insisted that this is all that can be done anyway and that if the major powers want to go to war or protect some smaller nation which becomes involved in a dispute they can do so anyway.

This could, of course, happen, but, on the other hand, should such a course be given legal sanction?

Should the veto power be used to prevent any aggressor nation from being publicly accused before the whole world? Unhappily it can be so used in the Security Council but not in the Assembly where apparently the right to accuse will be as broad as anyone could desire.

Moral Force Only Control

The important thing to be borne in mind is that in the final analysis, if moral force fails, the veto power in the council cannot prevent the other nations from going to war, too, in opposition to aggression. So long as the United States, for example, can decide for itself whether it will join with other countries to discipline a major power by the use of military force, the real question is not the veto power in a security council but the potentiality of our own armed forces plus the military power of those nations which agree with us.

The United Nations charter will have accomplished much if it creates a machinery whereby the willful acts of aggressor nations can be uncovered to view so that peoples will be ready to back up their governments in any steps they may take to use military force to stop a threatened aggression or the spread of a local conflict.

Portentous World Issue Is Perceived

In British Election

By MARK SULLIVAN

For some eight weeks, the great problems facing the world must remain in suspense; they must await the outcome of an election in Britain. The suspense is inescapable. True, Prime Minister Churchill says the pendency of the election need not interfere with a proposed meeting of himself with President Truman and Premier Stalin. But if such a meeting should be held, its consideration of world problems could not be conclusive. Churchill could not speak with authority. Everybody, especially Stalin, would wait to see whether the British election keeps Churchill in power. It is the British election that is conclusive. The world must await its outcome.

The matters thus halted or slowed down include the international organization now being attempted at San Francisco, the peace settlements in Europe, the relation of Britain and the United States to Russia, the forms of government to be set up in liberated and conquered countries.

All these, and the sum of them, the whole of the direction the future world is to take, depends greatly on the outcome of the British election.

Proposal Flatly Rejected

Since the beginning of the war Britain has been under a formal coalition government, composed of a Conservative majority and a strong Labor party minority, with cabinet posts divided between the two.

Recently Prime Minister Churchill proposed to the Labor party that the coalition be continued until the end of the war with Japan. This Labor party refused, in a party convention, by a vote of some 1100 to 2.

To America, the Labor party's insistence on an early end of the war, while it seems mystifying, in Britain, unlike the United States, elections are not held on fixed dates. The Labor party could have waited. Their unwillingness to do so, their wish to upset so great and successful a war leader as Churchill, suggests some strong reason on their part.

The reason is to be inferred from speeches and actions in the Labor Party's recent convention. It is related to the world-wide ideological controversy between individualism and collectivism.

Portentous Implication

The implication is portentous. It suggests that, if the Labor party should win the election, negotiations between Britain and Stalin, over the status of liberated countries, would tend toward compromise between two forms of collectivism. Should Churchill remain in power, the issue would be a clearest one between individualism and collectivism.

Success of the Labor party in the British election, would affect the whole world, including the United States. Here, it would give new courage to the radical ideology which just now is under eclipse. At present the United States and Britain are together as symbols of a conservative direction for the world. Success of the Labor party in the coming British election would not only leave the United States standing alone, but would encourage the opposition to conservatism here.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Took a stroll through my Victory garden today and if peace is going to look anything like my carrots do at the moment, the world is going to be an awful mess. Even the Japanese beetles gave up when they saw my scrubbs peeping up through the adobe.

I went out this morning and saw four of them committing hara kiri on the cultivator. But I finally found out how to tell the lettuce from the weeds. If my daughter's rabbit eats it all up, it's lettuce.

Everyone told me that I'd need a green thumb to raise a good garden and I thought of painting my right one. But I hated to cover up the radish as it helps so much when I'm hitchhiking at night. And the trouble I went through to nurse them past the frosty spells . . . a smudge pot every three feet. In fact, there were some nights this spring when I didn't know if I was looking at a garden or Pittsburgh from 10,000 feet.

And I finally caught on to why the cold spells never killed any of the bugs. They'd spotted a cricket in my radio and every night he'd shortwave the frost warnings.

at collectivism as a world wide movement; and that they wish at once to help the world movement, and be helped by it. One leader said that an early election in Britain, with success by the Labor party, would encourage the so-called liberal movements now under way in liberated and conquered countries.

There was an implication by victory by the Labor party, and the unseating of Churchill, would make it easier for Britain to have harmonious relations with Stalin.

Court Reserves Divorce Decision

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper of the circuit court reserved decision yesterday in the suit of Mrs. Elizabeth Pyle Davis, Somerset, Pa., against Park D. Davis, Somerset, who has a divorce decree issued here last year set aside.

Mrs. Davis, represented by Leland L. Walker and Noel Speir Cook, Somerset and Cumberland attorneys respectively, contended that Davis obtained the divorce here while representing himself as a Maryland resident. He had been denied a divorce in Somerset.

Harold E. Naughton represents Davis. The couple have one daughter, Everstine, treasurer.

Neglected Wives Find Recompense from Children

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I read your column, I can compare my life to some of those you mention. For nineteen years I've been married to the wrong man. I've never known love. There are those we call peacemakers, but if they could see what goes on in the homes where they try to make peace, they might quit their roles. I've always had a hard time, trying to raise my four sons, taking care of his people, and mine as well. Still I never get one "thank you." Funny, isn't it?

There are husbands like these who are crazy about other women and think more of them than they do of their own wives.

UNHAPPY WIFE

No, I don't think there's anything funny about the situation you describe. It's tragic to my way of thinking, and I get hundreds of letters from women in the same boat. The recompense often comes from the children, and we'll hope that those four boys who have seen you give up so much, to make their home comfortable, and do for their father's people as well as your own, will appreciate what a fine mother they have.

Triangle with Two 4-Fs

Dear Miss Fairfax: I have only a few weeks in which to decide my problem, so I'm coming to you for help. For three years I went with a man who couldn't pass the physical examination for the service. He was in love with me, as I claimed, but he was seeing another girl. I didn't want to interfere in their affair, so I gave him up.

Since then I have fallen in love with another boy who is also 4-F, and who is my age—19 years. The other man is 26. However, the first man still loves me, and he's been terribly upset since he knows I love another boy. I feel sorry for him, but could never love him again.

Please help me decide what to do. Shall I marry the boy I love, or go back to the man I don't love and never will?

M.M.B.

There is really no problem at all in your case. For three years you went with a man who couldn't pass his physical examination. At the same time he was seeing another girl. You didn't want to interfere so gave him up.

Since then you've fallen in love with a boy of your own age. There is no reason why you should regard the fact that the other man is terribly upset because he knows he can't help him.

S-Sgt. Robert E. Meredith founder

Today we celebrate our Fifth Anniversary in Business in Cumberland

On May 29th, 1940, Robert E. and Alice Meredith opened a store at the corner of Maryland Avenue and Williams Street to serve the folks in that particular neighborhood. Because of the wide variety of groceries and meats, patent medicines and household remedies, magazines and newspapers, ice cream and fountain drinks they carried, and because they served until eleven each evening, the store has grown into a Cumberland institution.

The Merediths came to Cumberland from Altoona some seven years ago. Bob had attended Juniata and Penn State College and Mrs. Bob is a graduate of Hahnemann Medical School of Philadelphia, being a registered Medical Technologist and at the time Bob entered the service was employed by Dr. Van Ormer. When war was declared, Bob took a position with the Kelly Springfield Engineering where he was employed until he entered the Army on May 13, 1943. He trained at Camp Shelby for 16 months, attended Intelligence School at Camp Ritchey and shipped overseas on November 13, 1944. He was in action for five months with the "Fighting 69th" of Gen. Hodges First Army and received a citation when they joined with the Russians. Bob now has four medals including the Bronze Star. His outfit is now preparing to fight the Japs.

Since Bob has been away, Mrs. Meredith has run the store with the help of friends like Mary Wolfe and T. J. Dawson, the assistance of the salesmen, the indulgence of the customers and the loyalty of Shirley Nichol, Colleen Breightner, Kathleen Lloyd, clerks. Even competitors have co-operated in helping Mrs. Meredith carry on the business.

To show her appreciation to her customers, Mrs. Meredith is planning a treat for the kiddies of the neighborhood on Tuesday evening from 7 to 9.

Boost Apple Prices E. B. Friddle, 27, Dies in Hospital Of Short Illness

By MRS. R. E. FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 28—Emerson Brown Friddle, 27, died Friday afternoon in the Rockingham Memorial hospital after an illness of two days. Wednesday morning Mr. Friddle suffered a kidney attack. Thursday he went to Harrisonburg for examination. Funeral services were held Sunday evening, May 27, in the Methodist church with his pastor, the Rev. J. D. McDonald, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Charles Kerman of the Presbyterian church. Interment was in Olivet cemetery.

Active pallbearers were Felix Poling, Ed Caseykemp, John Fisher, M. W. Gamble III, Morton Friddle and C. B. Hiett. Honorary pallbearers were Ward Strawderman, Charles Shobe, R. J. Bean, Howard Williams, M. A. Bean, F. C. Schmetzsch, Ted Sager, L. Wayne Wilson, Reginald Seville, Willard Sackett and William Friddle.

Mr. Friddle, the son of Arno E. and Gladys Brown Friddle, who survive, was born in Romney. He graduated from the Moorefield high school in the class of 1936 and attended Shenandoah college, Dayton, Va., for two years. He worked in Washington in the Department of Agriculture for a couple of years but for the last five years has been associated with his father in the operation of Friddle's pharmacy.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, the former Miss Hilda Riggleman.

Fugitive Captured

John Grant Skinner Fultz was captured at the home of his mother on Branch mountain, Thursday at 8:15 a.m. after having been at liberty for nearly two years. Officers of the state police and Moorefield surrounded the home and apprehended the fugitive within 300 yards of his home.

Fultz, who escaped from a state prison camp at Reader in September, 1943, told the officers that he had spent the time since his escape in Virginia, Maryland, a trip to Florida and to Chicago, Ill., as well as his home near Mathias.

He was taken to Moundsville, Thursday evening and turned over to the warden there.

The officers had gone to Branch Mountain early Thursday morning and found Fultz as he was coming in from the woods for food. He was unarmed and offered no resistance to arrest.

There was no particular reason to take officials to the mountain Thursday morning, other than the fact that no trace had been found of him anywhere else and it seemed logical to suppose that he was hiding near his home.

Arrested for Alleged Theft

Paul Howard Houston, 19, Charles-ton, was apprehended in Romney the first of last week, as he was waiting to take a bus for Charleston. He is held in the Petersburg jail on charges of having stolen $50 from the home of Walter Bosley near Old Fields.

Houston had come to the Bosley home Monday evening and gone on Petersburg. The money, which had been in the purse of Mrs. Bosley, was found missing after his departure and the alarm was sent out to apprehend him. When he was arrested, $48.42 was found in his possession.

Houston had lived at the Bosley place as an employee last year.

Addresses Graduates

Congressman Jennings Randolph of the second Congressional district of West Virginia, addressed the graduating class of the Moorefield high school Wednesday evening at the twenty-eighth annual commencement exercises.

After paying tribute to the teachers of the state, Randolph spoke on what war really means and pointed out that peace must be insured for the future.

Twenty-eight diplomas were presented by county superintendent R. S. Dispanet. Twenty-four graduates were present, two, Miss Polly Jean Kiracofe and Miss Laura Jean Burch, who had completed their work in summer terms last year, and two, Charles Hugh Bean, Jr., and William Joseph Day, are in the service.

Special awards were made by principal John Mathias. The journal award, given by the Moorefield Examiner, went to Jimmy Woy; the scholarship medal to Miss Emma Burch, class salutatorian; the valedictory medal to John Grover.

Ellis Bean was given the citizenship award and Clyde Ours was selected as the outstanding athlete of his class. John Grover received a scholarship award from the Pepsi-Cola Company.

The Rev. C. W. Kernan, Moorefield Presbyterian church, gave the invocation and benediction and Mrs. H. M. Calhoun played processional and recessional. Jimmy Woy gave a salute to boys. Morris Clark played a clarinet solo.

Allegany at Fort Hill

(End of season)

The 1945 Bi-State Interscholastic Conference campaign will draw to a close this evening at 4 o'clock when Allegany high's conference and city champions meet the Fort Hill high Sentinels, in a return tilt at Fort Hill and Hyndman (Pa.) high tossers tangle with the Beall High Mountaineers at Frostburg.

Allegany, which sewed up both titles last week by edging out LaSalle's Explorers, will be striving for its eighth consecutive triumph. The Campers topped Fort Hill, 6-5, in the previous meeting and a protest filed with the conference by "Bobby" Cavanaugh, Sentinel mentor, failed to come up for a vote when the circuit met to take action.

Fort Hill can't finish any worse than second in the conference. The Hilltoppers have won five games and lost two—the defeats coming at the hands of Allegany and LaSalle.

Tom Burns, who has won five straight, or Olin Moody, a southpaw who has two victories to his credit, will start on the mound for Allegany. Moody was the winner in the first Camper-Sentinel engagement, Darl "Ace" Jewell, with a record of four triumphs and two setbacks, will work on the slab for Fort Hill.

Hyndman, which has lost its last five games, hopes to defeat Beall and the LaSalle, which has completed its season, for fourth place. The Pennsylvanians lost 4-3 in nine innings to the Mountaineers at Hyndman and Johnny Waltman, who has lost three, or Ray Evans, winner of one of four, will try to give Lloyd Kellor's boys an even break in the series. John Workman, with one victory and four defeats, or Billy Farrady, who has won one and lost one, will pitch for Beall.

Holmes Continues To Lead National League in Hitting

Sets Pace for Third Successive Week with .402 Average

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves was the only .400 hitter in the Major Leagues today, setting the pace in the National League for the third successive week with a .402 average.

Holmes dropped off twenty-four points from last week's pace but runnerup Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants also slipped, leaving the Boston outfielder out front by twenty-one degrees. Ott was hitting .381 in averages including Sunday's games and Nap Reeves, his third sacker, has zoomed into a third-place tie with Whitey Kurowski of St. Louis at .366. The Giants' Cuban infielder picked up twenty-one points in moving from seventh to third.

Other top flight hitters were Goody Rosen, Brooklyn, .360; Luis Olmo, Brooklyn, .355; Tommy O'Brien, Pittsburgh, .337; Phil Cavarretta, Chicago, and Carden Gilmore, Boston, .336 and Ernie Lombardi, New York, .330.

Holmes also led in runs scored with thirty-one, passing Ott, who was first in total hits with fifty-one and tied with Kurowski for most doubles with thirteen.

Lombardi held his runs batted in lead with three Sunday although Kurowski had passed him during the week. Big Lom had knocked home thirty-two, one more than Kurowski and topped both circuits in home runs with eleven.

Stan Hack of the Chicago Cubs went ahead in total triples, five, and Jack Barrett, of Pittsburgh, the defending champ, took over the stolen base championship with seven.

Both of the two-year-olds are trained by Sol Rutnick, who admits he can't tell the difference between the two. They are by the same sire, Easy Mon, and have the same coloring and conformity except that Easy Spell has a white spot on his right hind leg. Both are owned by Fred Landsburg.

Neither had raced before last Monday. Grandpa Max, programmed as Easy Spell, won the opening race of the New York season.

Easy Spell, listed on the program as Grandpa Max, finished ninth in a nine-horse field on Wednesday.

Marshall Cassidy, assistant secretary of the jockey club, (New York) said the betting pay-offs would stand but that first place money in the race would go to Twenty-Six, who finished second in the race.

It was an innocent mistake," said Cassidy, "and no other penalty will be imposed."

When Easy Spell's registration certificate was produced in the paddock before the May 21 race, the failure of the paper to list the white spot was noticed but the colt was approved and the papers sent to Trainer Rutnick for correction.

Later a study of the two colts and their certificates brought out the discrepancy and today an affidavit from Marvin Childs, of Nicholaville, Ky., farm manager for the Henry H. Knight breeding establishment, straightened out the matter.

After Wednesday's race A. L. Kleven purchased Grandpa Max, really Easy Spell, and Cassidy said that Kleven "now has the right of refusal to buy the thoroughbred."

Elmer Craddock Killed in Action Near Okinawa

Local Soldier Won Bronze Star for Service at Leyte

Cpl. Elmer Joseph Craddock, 35, was killed in action April 18 on Ie Shima, near Okinawa, according to word from the War department received yesterday by his widow, Mrs. Irene Brown Craddock, 603 Louisiana avenue.

After entering the armed forces on September 2, 1943, Cpl. Craddock trained at Camp Walters, Tex., and Fort Ord, Cal., before sailing for duty in the Pacific area in February 1944.

Cpl. Craddock participated in the battles of Guam and Leyte before going to Ie Shima. He won the Bronze Star for his service at Leyte in the Philippines.

At Le Shima, Cpl. Craddock served with a bomb disposal squad of the Seventy-seventh division.

A son of Mrs. Anna Craddock, 603 Louisiana avenue, and the late Joseph Craddock, Cpl. Craddock was graduated from LaSalle high school in 1927.

He was employed by Alex J. Mandel, Hagerstown wholesale whiskey firm, before entering the service.

Cpl. Craddock is survived by only his mother and his widow.

Heskett Presents Cumberland Brief At CAB Hearing

Charles Z. Heskett, director of the Cumberland Municipal Airport, presented a brief on the part of this city together with supporting petitions of the Transcontinental Western Airlines to two examiners of the Civil Aeronautics Board at Southeastern States regional CAB hearings now in progress at Greensboro, N. C.

The petitions asked for authority to include Cumberland as a stop on TWA's existing east-west route No. 51.

Hearing of testimony on the part of airline companies will take place today and will be followed in the next four to six weeks by argument by counsel on behalf of the public and by counsel representing the air-lines.

Deliberation, reports and recommendations will precede final arguments before the full CAB in Washington in October. The final decision will be even later.

Twenty-eight applications for new air routes and extensions of existing routes have been filed with the CAB and will be considered during the hearings at Greensboro. About 800 cities in nine Southeastern states and parts of three others included in the CAB's Southeastern region have an interest in the applications which are lined up with postwar aviation.

Heskett appeared before Ross I. Newmann, presiding examiner, and Curtis C. Henderson, assistant examiner, just before a representative from Hagerstown, also interested in postwar aviation service.

Newspaper Firm Adopts Employee Retirement Plan

The Times and Alleganian Company has adopted a retirement plan, effective June 1, that will guarantee a life-long old-age income and also guarantee, should the employee fail to reach retirement age, a substantial death benefit income to his family. John J. McMullen, president, announced yesterday.

Life insurance coverage and a provision for employees who are permanently disabled while in company service are also included in the pension plan.

Employees with five or more years of service with the company and who are between the ages of 25 and 60 are eligible to participate in the plan. Full coverage is provided for the time spent in military service.

Employees who attain this classification will be able to participate and those whose age is over 60 will be covered informally outside of the plan. Participation is optional.

Participating employees will pay three per cent of their base salary as a premium; the company will pay the remainder of the cost—about three and one-half times the employee's contribution.

The insurance coverage will be $1,000 for each $10 monthly pension. Up to $7000 worth of insurance is allowed without medical examination.

Retirement age is 65 although an employee may retire earlier at a reduced monthly pension rate, or work after he is 65, receiving his pension as well as his salary.

Local News in Brief

The Maryland State Industrial Accident Commission will conduct hearings in the city hall council chamber on Friday, June 1 at 10 a.m.

Members of the drum and bugle corps of Fort Cumberland Squadron No. 13, Sons of the American Legion, are requested to meet at the Legion home tomorrow at 9 a.m. to receive final instructions for the Memorial day parade. Sons of legionnaires not connected with the musical unit are also invited to participate in the parade.

The Cumberland Police Department has been asked to apprehend a woman who cashed a bad check in Frostburg Saturday and then drove away in a car bearing Pennsylvania license plates. She was described as wearing a gold colored coat and driving a dark coupe.

Servicemen Invited To Join in Legion Memorial Day Events

Robert C. Bowers, commander of Fort Cumberland Post, No. 13, American Legion, yesterday announced that he had invited all ex-servicemen home on leave and all discharged veterans to participate in the Memorial day ceremonies.

Paul C. Weisenmiller, first vice commander, and several other Legionnaires are decorating the graves of all veterans. Flags have been provided for all graves.

Picture of Year To Be Announced At Annual Dinner

Sixth Annual Affair of Camera Club Will Be Held Today

Reservations have been made for thirty guests for the sixth annual "Picture of the Year" dinner of the Cumberland Camera Club, to be held this evening at 6:45 o'clock in Minke's Cottage Inn, Christie road.

First, second and third prize winners and seven honorable mentions will be announced. Certificates will be presented to the winners of the three top prizes and trophies will be presented at a later date when they are available.

Sixty prints were entered in the annual contest. The winners were selected by Fred Peet, of Detroit, fellow of the Royal Photographic Society, whose pictures have appeared in leading photographic journals.

Charles W. Johnson's "Attack" won first prize in the 1944 contest.

Other past winners have been John K. King, Sam Dooley, Dr. Leslie E. Daugherty and Dr. A. G. T. Twigg.

The three outstanding prints will be displayed in the window of Harvey's Jewelry Store, Baltimore street.

Pittsburgh Synod Elects Irwin, Pa., Pastor President

The Pittsburgh synod of the Evangelical and Reformed church concluded its spring meeting at First church, Greensburg, Pa., last week by electing the Rev. E. M. Dietrich, of Irwin, Pa., president of the synod.

Hearing of testimony on the part of airline companies will take place today and will be followed in the next four to six weeks by argument by counsel on behalf of the public and by counsel representing the air-lines.

Deliberation, reports and recommendations will precede final arguments before the full CAB in Washington in October. The final decision will be even later.

Twenty-eight applications for new air routes and extensions of existing routes have been filed with the CAB and will be considered during the hearings at Greensboro. About 800 cities in nine Southeastern states and parts of three others included in the CAB's Southeastern region have an interest in the applications which are lined up with postwar aviation.

Heskett appeared before Ross I. Newmann, presiding examiner, and Curtis C. Henderson, assistant examiner, just before a representative from Hagerstown, also interested in postwar aviation service.

The Pittsburgh synod of the Evangelical and Reformed church concluded its spring meeting at First church, Greensburg, Pa., last week by electing the Rev. E. M. Dietrich, of Irwin, Pa., president of the synod.

It was also announced that this area was one of the few which had paid in full its 1944 apportionment, and the prospects of meeting its 1945 apportionment are very encouraging. The area includes Frostburg, Corriganville, Hyndman and Cumberland.

Among the noteworthy actions of the synod were the adoption of a resolution opposing compulsory peacetime military training; the setting up of machinery for co-operation with the Evangelical and Reformed World Service Commission with a $1,200,000 budget for the coming three years, the main purpose of which is to rehabilitate European churches and church life; a resolution favoring a permanent Fair Employment Practices act; renewal of the synodical youth camp, to be located this summer near Grantsville; and voting of a special grant of funds to the Synodical National Missions committee with which to promote surveys of war-bombed communities and the establishment of mission churches, where population growth indicates new churches are needed.

The synod went on record as favoring increased salaries and more paid office help for overworked ministers, and a nationwide recruiting drive to enlist young men for the study of the ministry, a movement which has already resulted in the compilation of 1,000 names of young men who are ministerial prospects.

During the various sessions, the synod heard Dr. John Lentz, of Collegeville, Pa., first vice president of the Evangelical and Reformed church; the Rev. Huber Klemme, of Cleveland, executive secretary of the Social Action committee; Dr. Silas Bittner, Philadelphia, secretary-treasurer of the Board of Pensions and Relief; Dr. Charles F. Freeman, Doylestown, Pa., associate secretary of the Churchmen's Brotherhood; the Rev. E. W. Menzel, Dunkirk, N. Y., chaplain-superintendent of the Dunkirk Conference grounds, the chief youth camp of the denomination; the Rev. Harold Wilke, Lansdale, Pa., special chaplain to wounded servicemen; and representatives of synodical benevolent projects.
